

Tormenta

Fall 2022

Children's & Young Adult

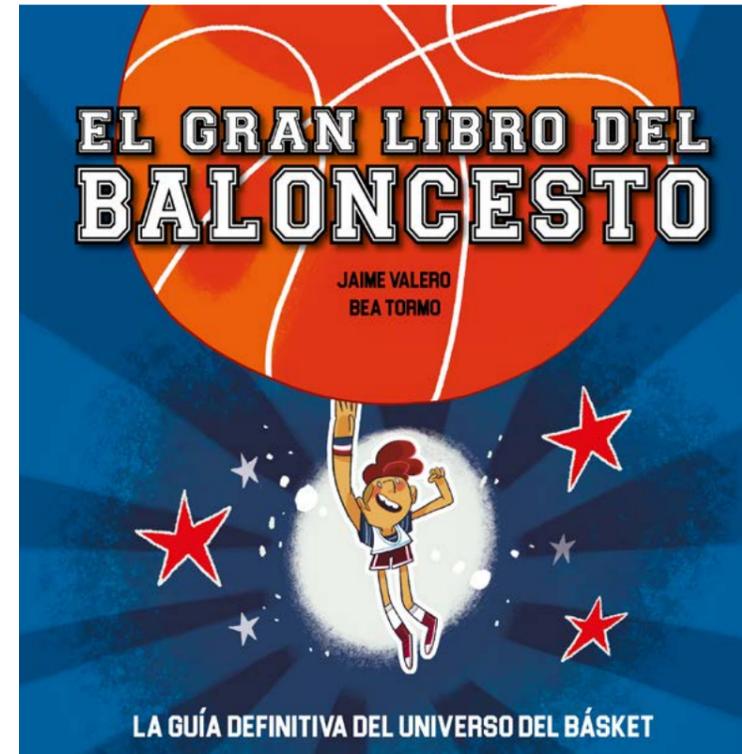

Illustration by Kiko Sánchez

Dear friends,
 2022 is proving to be a fruitful year for Tormenta. During the last months, we have been working on many new titles, including fascinating non-fiction, hilarious picture books and chapter books, gripping middle grade and young adult, and piercing graphic novels. We are happy to bring them to you, especially now that Spain is the Guest of Honour at the Frankfurt Book Fair. Please don't hesitate to ask about translation grants included in the Spain Frankfurt 2022 program, and join us in this celebration of Spanish (and worldwide) creativity.
 Long live books!

Tunnels. Wonderful structures here and there

Cover not final

By Kiko Sánchez

Ever since Prehistory, humankind has dugged tunnels in order to shorten long distances. In caves, under the sea, below great cities...

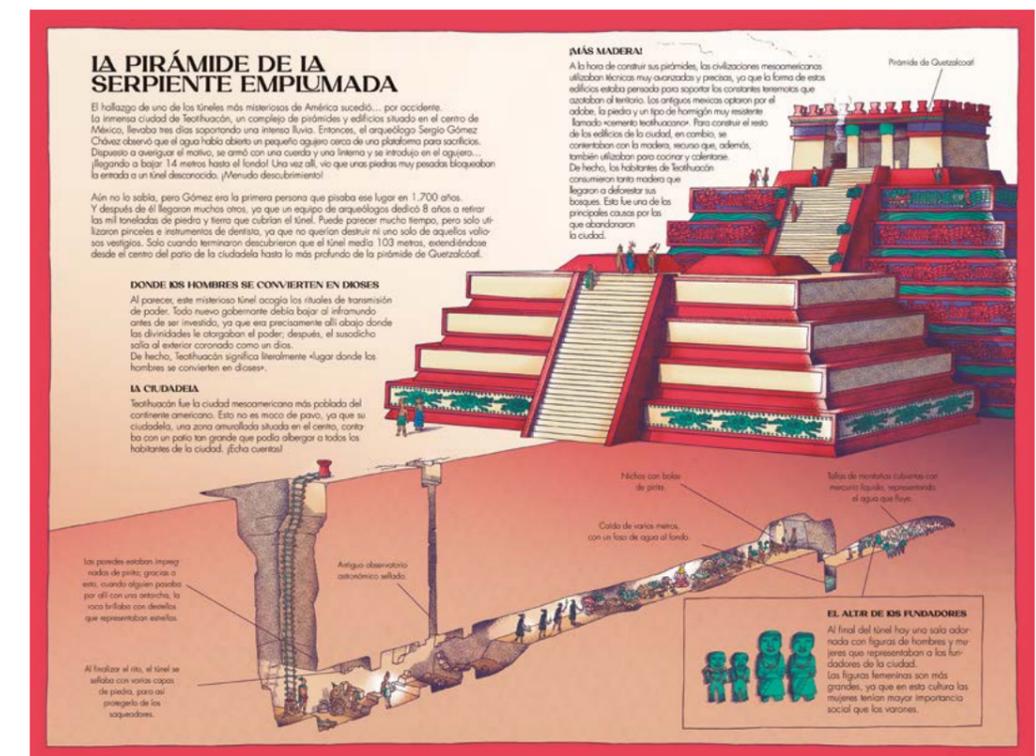

Did you know there's a secret tunnel under the White House? Did you know that soviets tried to build a tunnel down to the centre of the Earth, which even today is the deepest of the world?

Tunnels shows us the most fascinating holes of the planet, from the most ancient excavations to the hadron collider, including lots of curious and surprising facts.

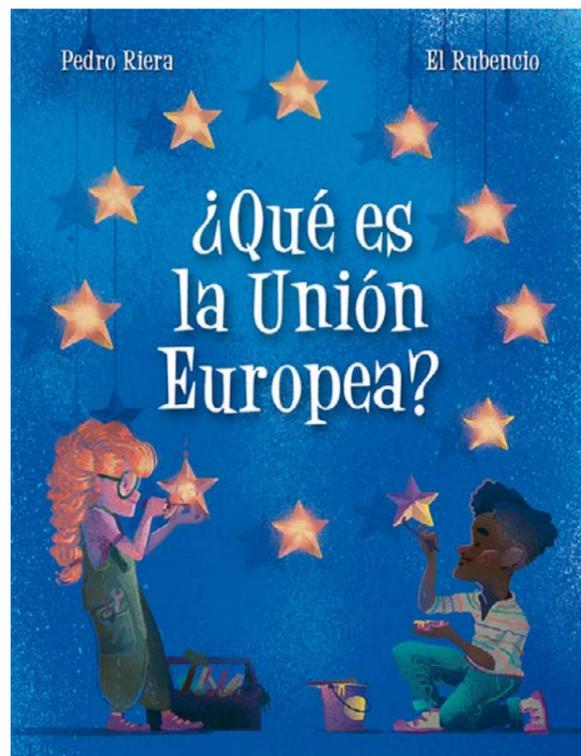

It can also be read as a "seek and find" book, as it includes a didactic activity in the end.

What is the European Union?

Text: Pedro Riera. Illustrations: El Rubencio

The European Union is an important institution which affects greatly our daily life. It has an impact on the sugar on your soda, but also on bigger issues, such as the rights of migrant children. But what is the EU exactly, and why does it seem so far away?

Pedro Riera brings the institution closer to children, so it stops being something abstract and incomprehensible. He is not only a multi-awarded children's and YA author, but also a current affairs writer and a tireless traveller. He has lived in conflicted countries and knows first-hand the importance of international cooperation.

What is the European Union? seeks to educate the Europeans of the future, with rigour and critical thinking, while using humour and curiosities.

The Croquette Thief

Text: Pedro Riera. Illustrations: Bea Tormo

In this family, they have a real passion por croquettes. But sometimes great passions can lead to great conflicts... specially when the traitor lives in your own home!

"I'll never forget the day we found out there was a croquette thief among us. The thing with croquette thieves is that they're not as easy to spot as, say, vampires or mummies. And by the time you find out who they are, it's too late. Your croquettes are doomed! For a croquette thief it's never enough to just steal your croquettes. Text: Mairena Ruiz. Illustrations: Lara Pickle

Ali is excited: after participating in an online challenge with one of her choreographies, she has been sent to an Academy in London, where she will have to prepare with other girls for the final selection. The four selected girls will form a girl band!

It's a real challenge, and it's the first time that Ali parts from home, but she will have the support of Tara, a Nigerian girl with a great voice, and River, a teen star from the US. Not all her classmates are so kind, though; for example, Sun-hee, a K-pop apprentice that doesn't seem to get on with anyone except River (but because River likes everyone).

Things will only get complicated when some girls start having little accidents that get them disqualified. But what if... they're not just accidents? Is there someone behind all this? And will Ali and her friends solve the mystery while following their dream?

naba escribir poemas de amor (este artículo lo escribí bajo presión, lo admito). El periódico atraía a más lectores a cada día que pasaba.

Entré a la clase de Inglés justo antes que mister García, quien ya había corregido los exámenes de la semana anterior.

El profesor le entregó el suyo a Rubén, que había sacado un 6 raspado.

By J. T. Lekunberri

Alaia lives in the Warts, a rocky region where nothing ever happens. A 13-year-old orphan, she thinks her future will consist of taking care of the flock of pigsheep of the Stinks, the horrible family with whom she lives.

At least, until a mysterious sword falls from the sky and breaks the roof of the pigsty. Where does it come from? Whose is it?

The girl will go on a journey that will take her to the Drain, a sinister underground world. There she will compete with a young dragon called Panpox to get the golden turkey. But this tournament is no game, and the pair will have to fight against hunters, mercenaries, witches and other unexpected rivals. All that while a patrol of dragons tries to hunt down Panpox, who has a hidden past, and with the mystery of the Spectre at the background.

Kazaam Valley 2. Let's Save the Magic-Con! NEW

Text: María Rubio. Illustrations: Bea Tormo

Coco is losing her mind. This year the Magic-Con is going to be celebrated in Kazaam Valley. In case you don't know, it's the COOLEST wizard convention in the universe. Just picture it: witches, fairies and magicians from everywhere, spell demonstrations, fantastic animals... and waffle stands! But, if the Magic-Con is delirious, the way that Coco messes it up there is just EPIC. Really, it's so dodgy... that is puts the whole valley in danger!

Now, to save Kazaam, Coco will have to go on a journey, full of dangers and adventures, with Ham, a super powerful witch called Glinda and a goat.

Yes, that's right. A goat.

So you know: get ready for anything!

The Creature of the Forest

By Pedro Riera

Every first crescent moon of summer, the kids of the village used to go inside the forest, always in groups, to search for the creature that they called "Big Monster". It became a kind of ritual, which made children feel older and helped them face their fears. Nevertheless, the year of the 30th anniversary of this tradition, something happened in the forest; something unexpected and violent that destroyed the calm of the village. An event that would change the life of a kid forever. This kid's name was Mathias. He was 10 years old and, according to his father, he was too imaginative. This is his story.

The Legend of the Forest With No Name

By Pedro Riera

According to the legend, once there was a forest where several animals of different species lived in harmony. They had had to run away from the desolation that surrounded them, leaving hunger, war, incomprehension, treason and likely death behind. In this forest, their inhabitants found respect and equality.

Nowadays, the animals still tell their children about this legend, and they also proclaim that the protagonists of the story survived everything, even the attack of their enemies. But is it true? Can we believe the whole legend of the forest with no name? If you want to find out, you will have to join Homer the deer, Abel the mite, Basile the raven, Merak the mouse and all of their friends in this thrilling journey to the forest with no name.

The Contest of the Grandparents

Text: Pablo C. Reyna. Illustrations: Eugenia Ábalos

They say the northern wind of the valley brings misfortune. Will its inhabitants manage to get away from the old curse?

Kiko, Angi, Tono and Carmen are the Urbanites, the kids of the housing area. With the aim of bringing the youth of the valley together, the city council organizes a contest between the four groups of friends: the Rurals, the Locals, the Urbanites and the Outsiders. But, instead of uniting them, this contest will provoke a huge rivalry.

This time, the mayor wants the groups to participate alongside their grandparents. But there is a little problem: none of the Urbanites has grandparents. There are no old people in the housing area. So they post an ad on the Internet to find candidates. Kiko, Angi and the rest will discover that there are no perfect families.

De pronto, un ruido en el piso de arriba lo sobresaltó. Con el susto, el cilindro chino se le escurrió entre los dedos y cayó al suelo, haciéndose añicos. Kiko maldijo para sus adentros: solo era su padre, que se iba a dormir.

Entonces contempló el estropicio. Necesitaría tres botes de pegamento para reconstruir el cilindro, y eso sí sabía hacerlo. Iba a recoger los pedazos rotos cuando vio algo que llamó su atención.

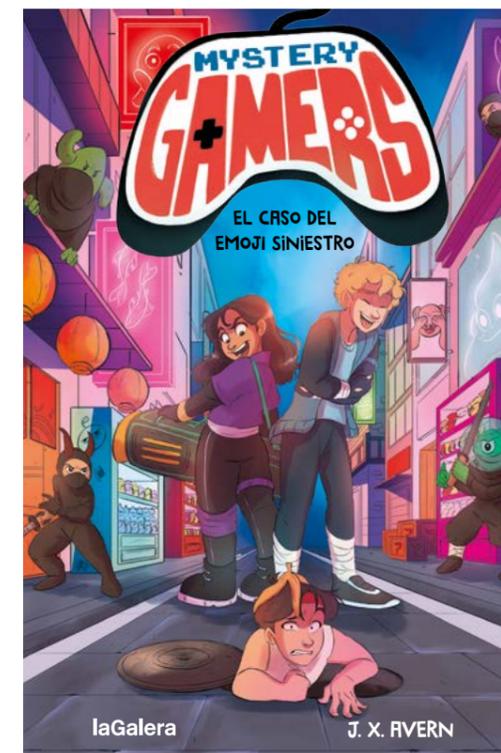

Había un objeto verdoso entre los restos. Debía de llevar años dentro sin que nadie reparase en él. Lo agarró con cuidado y lo acercó a la luz. Sintió un golpe de emoción al descubrir un colgante con forma de liebre, levantada sobre las patas traseras. Tenía una expresión fiera que no invitaba a achucharla.

Se fijó con atención en la superficie. Alguien había grabado las letras A. G. en la superficie. Eran las iniciales de su abuelo, Arturo Gascón.

Emocionado, recogió como pudo lo que quedaba del cilindro chino y arrastró la caja hasta

Heart and Seoul (trilogy)

By Silvia Aliaga and Tatiana Marco

Paula is a young dancer who's newly arrived in the Korean capital. A few weeks ago she got a curious job offer and abandoned everything to settle in Seoul. She's about to plunge in the world of K-pop, the Korean pop music phenomenon that is triumphing around the world.

Cris is a young British girl with a terminal disease who journeys to Seoul with a single goal: to give back a necklace to a K-pop superstar whose path crossed hers in England.

That superstar is Jay, a member of the band R*E*X. He's lost touch with his old friends and the future of the group is in danger. Being a K-pop idol isn't as wonderful as it looks in music videos. When the fates of these three strangers intersect, their lives will change forever.

My Name is Zoila (trilogy)

By Chiki Fabregat

Zoila and her twin brother Liam live with their grandmother and lead a normal human life. They attend school, they have friends... but they also keep a secret: they have pointy ears and the power to cause death, heal wounds and read minds. That, of course, is the heritage of their mother, who was an elf... but their father was human, so now they are half one, half the other, and they seem to belong nowhere.

Zoila can't find her place in the world, specially when they are called to join the elves. But do they want to go live with the people who let their mother die? Zoila will be swept into a new universe full of unexpected discoveries, where she will have to face the truth about her birth and, also, the greatest war of all time: the one that confronts elves and humans.

A Tale of Violence

By Pedro Riera

Gabriel and Toni are close friends and have kept no secrets from each other since they were little. However, once they get to high school their friendship starts falling apart...

Is violence fair when it's used to impose justice? Much to Toni's dismay, Gabriel thinks so and is willing to go far to prove it.

"What looks like a novel of initiation actually has a much deeper reading, which brings you face to face with your preconceptions".

On the Other Side of the Screen

By Alba Quintas Garciandia

Luis is in his last high school year, but the exam for entering university is the least of his problems. He suffers bullying. More precisely, cyberbullying. The bully of his class, Alex, has managed to put everyone against him, and even Luis's best friend, Juan Carlos, is a little to blame. Only the new girl, Alicia, seems to stand by Luis.

Some time after, the people who were there (teachers, parents, students) may ask themselves why they didn't act. The story had a tragic ending, but they still wonder: could they have stopped it?

The Flower of Flame

By Alba Quintas Garciandia

No one knows what's going on inside the high school. Students and teachers run through the building and try to get out at all costs while they hear sounds similar to gunfire... But that's not possible, right?

A girl on the street has seen them getting inside and, yes, they were carrying guns. Another student shivers in the library after having witnessed a scene that he will never forget. And John... Where's John? Why, when everyone is trying to run away, is he going down the hall towards the gunshots? Maybe he wants to tell the story himself. Because this is his story. And John's story is the story of Columbine. Or maybe not.

The Power of Death

By Raquel Brune

Elias is a necromancer who is afraid of death and, well, everything really. So when he has to leave the comfort of the family antique shop and travel to London for an auction, he just knows it's all going to go wrong. Death is very present in his life, but what worries him is what he sees in his dreams: the most painful moments from the lives of others. Or at least that's what he thought he saw, until one night something strange happens: someone seems to be trying to communicate with him.

An enchanted statue, a combative activist and an old childhood friend (or enemy?) are set to disturb his peace and accompany him to Greece where something greater than the mystery of the powers of death awaits them.

From Soulcial, with love? NEW

By Iria G. Parente and Selene M. Pascual

When Inma gets the assignment to write an article on Soulcial, an app for finding your soulmate, she knows it's going to be torture. Over all when she is stood up in her first date.

Anyway, thanks to that she meets Kat. Soulcial doesn't pair them, but they still feel attracted to each other immediately... Which would be perfect if it weren't for Kat's rule: never date a girl twice; that way you won't get your heart broken.

Oliver, on the other hand, doesn't share that rule: he is looking for true love: and he finds it: Soulcial considers that Inma and him have a 99% compatibility. They are, with no doubt, soulmates. But love rarely is an exact science, right?

Antiheroes

By Iria G. Parente and Selene M. Pascual

A handful of teens in contemporary Madrid discover that their stranger powers (like controlling time or reading minds) aren't as unique as they thought.

After being trapped by an organization who wants to recondition them at their headquarters in Madrid (hidden in a ghost metro station), the five protagonists manage to escape and use their powers for goals that aren't exactly saving the world. Because who would want to be a hero... when they could be an antihero?

"Through some unique characters, Antiheroes reminds us that no power is more powerful than the one that comes from accepting and loving yourself for who you are." Javier Ruescas, writer.

Silverville

By Victoria Álvarez

In Silverville, Colorado, vengeance is about to strike a blow. When Grace Mallory settles in her in-law's former mansion in 1872, rumours soon circulate in town. A lady living alone? Why hasn't her husband John, the heir to the mining company, joined her? Ruby Lawrence knows the feeling of being underestimated as a woman, so it comes as no surprise that no one takes her mistrust of Grace seriously. Although her relatives should... After all, they murdered John's father.

As the peace of Silverville crumbles, the two become part of an intricate game where only one certainty remains: the world is a stage, and men and women are merely players.

The Voices from the Lake

By Beatriz Esteban

Ireland, 1997. Bree returns with her mother to her childhood village to escape the pain of her father’s death. But the home they remember isn’t the refuge they had longed for: lightbulbs blow for no reason, plunging them into darkness; words appear in the mirrors, and there’s a supernatural chill in the rooms. Her friend Adam suggests she has a gift, an ability to detect paranormal presences. But to Bree, it feels more like a curse. After all, we’re all haunted by the invisible ghosts of our own pasts... it’s just that Bree’s are starting to become visible.

I no longer knew which ghost scared me more: the one living under our roof or the one living under our skin. I had no idea which one would kill us first.
