Sebastià Alzamora

Sebastià Alzamora (Llucmajor/Majorca, 1972) graduated from the Universitat de les Illes Balears with a degree in Romanic Philology. He was first known as a poet with a collection called Rafel, published in 1994 and dedicated to the memory of a friend. Since then, he has written five volumes of poetry and eight novels, amongst them Sara i Jeremies (2002), Nit de l'ànima (2007), Miracle a Llucmajor (2010), Crim de sang (2012), Dos amics de vint anys (2013) and La Malcontenta (2015, theatrical adaptation in 2019). Reis del món is his most recent novel, published in 2020, by Proa. He has been awarded several prizes for both his fiction and his poetry, including the prestigious Sant Jordi Award for Catalan Literature in 2011 and the Serra d'Or Award of the Critics, in 2019. His works have been translated into Italian, English, Spanish, Danish, Polish, Portuguese and French. He writes a daily column for the newspapers Ara and Ara Balears. _____

SEBASTIÀ ALZAMORA

Ràbia (Rage)

Fiction, novel, 100 pp

_ Sold to: Catalunya (Proa), Croatia (Fraktura)

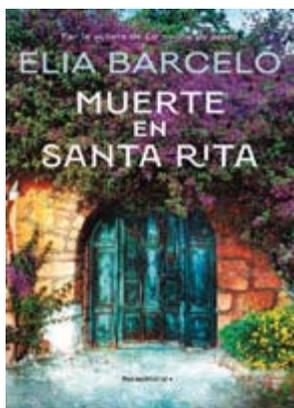

Who killed the narrator's dog? Though nobody knows, and neither will we find out, there seems to be something in the air, something that is going on on the island of Majorca, something that kills, something that leaves the protagonists of this short novel, that the author describes as "an obscene fable for an obscene time", speechless and frozen in despair. But is it something from the past claiming to come alive again, something that has been hidden or buried? Or is it something new that has been growing amongst us like a cancer? With a nod to existentialist classics like Camus' "The Stranger", Alzamora's new short novel invites us to take a trip to the very heart of darkness of European societies.

Elia Barceló

Elia Barcelo (Alicante, 1957) is the author of internationally successful novels like The Goldsmith's Secret (translated into eleven languages), The Hippogriff's Flight, Terrible Disguises and The Long Shadows. The combination of mystery and genre elements with realistic plots and a superb character building have become her trademark. Being one of the most versatile writers working now in Spain, she has been called „the Lady of the Thousand Worlds“. Perhaps unsurprisingly, she wrote her PhD on the archetypes of terror in Julio Cortázar's short stories (The Disturbing Familiarity). She is considered one of the three most important female SciFi writers in the Spanish language. Her latest contribution to the genre has been the Trilogy Anima Mundi (Celsius Award 2014). She also is the author of more than fifty crime and short stories that have been published all over the world, in eighteen languages. Her estimated worldwide readership is more than a million. Since 1997, she has been publishing books for young adults, such as The Case of the Cruel Artist (Edebé Award 1997), The Warehouse of the Terrible Words, Cordeluna (Edebé Award 2007) all of them long-sellers and, recently, My Life for yours (2015). _____

Fiction, novel, 364 pp

_Sold to: Spain (Roca), Catalunya (Roca), Germany (Piper), Netherlands (Querido), Poland (Wydawnictwo Literackie), Italy (Lit Edizioni), Croatia (Fraktura)

1936: July, 16th, Canary Islands, Spain. A murder that will open the doors to the military coup led by Franco and to the Spanish Civil War. 1969: July, 20th, Rabat, Morocco. A wild party in the marvelous garden of an old manor, celebrating the landing on the moon. A murder that will destroy a family.

Helena Guerrero is an internationally acclaimed artist, well known for the shadows that invade her pictures. After many years abroad, three things conspire to bring her back to Madrid from Adelaide, Australia, where she currently lives: a hint she discovers during a psychological constellation therapy, a wedding in her family and an e-mail from her estranged brother-in-law, offering to disclose some unknown facts regarding the murder of her sister. Helena will go looking for answers to the terrible questions that have troubled her all her life. She travels to Rabat, Morocco, to the old family manor, La Mora, with its mysterious gardens that have so long safely kept the shadows of the past, in order to find out the truth about the murder of her sister, in 1969.

Jesús Cañadas

Jesús Cañadas was born in 1980 in Cádiz, Spain. His short stories have become famous in genre magazines as Asimov, Miasma and Aurora and formed part of the anthologies Visiones 2008, The Best of Spanish Steampunk (hence the connection to Félix Palma), Charco Negro and Presencia Humana. In 2011, he published his first novel that was shortlisted for the Scifiworld Award in 2011. The Penguin Random House Group spotted him in 2013, publishing his second novel Los nombres muertos, later shortlisted for the Celsius Award of Genre Fiction. Since then, he has been labelled as one of the most outstanding genre writers in Spain. In 2015, Valdemar published his horror novel Pronto será de noche, a tribute to his masters Julio Cortázar and Stephen King. He currently lives in Berlin where he combines his literary work with screenwriting for Spanish TV. _____

JESÚS CAÑADAS

Dientes rojos (Red Teeth)

Fiction, thriller, 369 pp

_Sold to: Spain (Obscura), Germany (Suhrkamp), Brazil (Nova Fronteira)

A Berlin Cop cum Zombie, Cañadas' latest novel is probably the most fascinating and mindblowing thrillers we have read in years, with an atmospheric setting and references to some of the most charismatic books set in the German capital and to authors like Stephen King or Robert Pobi. Throughout the story we don't know where evil will come from next, neither does it show where and if salvation might be possible. Fantastic elements climb into the Cop-Story like zombies and turn everything upside down, evil and good get mixed up and finally revenge will have its way.

"Jesús Cañadas now clearly wears the crown of the Fantastical Thriller in Spain."

Fiction, novel, historical crime, 320 pp

_ Sold to: Spain (Libros de Seda), Audio Spanish (Storytel)

Barcelona, November 1909. Gabriel Martín, a young priest, is found murdered in the city’s Cathedral neighborhood – his body is naked and there are strange marks on his back that look like wings. Inspector Ignasi Requesens is in charge of the investigation. Who could be responsible? Father Martín’s congregation included devoted high-society ladies, Pueblo Nuevo factory workers and slum-dwellers. Many believed that the priest was actually an angel; few knew the real personality of the murdered man. Why was his body abandoned like that, naked and in the middle of the night? Could it be the work of the authorities to distract attention from the events of the Tragic Week? And what are the unusual marks on his back? A series of other deaths complicates the investigation even further until Inspector Requesens manages to reveal the unexpected truth.

Aleksei, an orphan in the Siberian wilderness, sets out on a journey to Moscow, together with the befriended priest Vasily Lebedev and from there to Paris, at the end of the nineteenth century. In the City of Light he will enjoy a new life with Aunt Vanya and the rest of his peculiar family. But only until his path crosses with that of a German spy... So, whilst Aleksei is becoming a French citizen, the German dancer Mata Hari is becoming a star in the cabarets of Berlin where the Nazi officials contact her in order to get her to spy on the French. As a consequence, Margot Zelle, the true name of the woman behind the diva, goes on a trip that will take her to her cherished Madrid, to the eternal Paris of the Moulin Rouge and to the foggy London immersed in prewar confusion. But her pilgrimage will reveal to her that she is but a pawn in the hands of the powerful men who rule the game. And now, in order to save her life, she needs to hide a list, a list that Aleksei will have to find in order to save thousands of lives...

_ Sold to: Spain (La Galera), Catalunya (La Galera), Poland (Wielka Litera)

Nora has three problems.

The first is that her two best friends have broken up. Now she has to put up with them sharing her friendship through very cold WhatsApp messages.

The second is that Marcos, the boy she's in love with since high school, doesn't quite realize that they're made for each other and insists on dating other girls.

The third is that she has caught her mom and their neighbor in bed. And that would be a beautiful thing (after the initial trauma) if they hadn't decided to live together all of them: the two women, Nora and Adrián. Adrián, Nora's three first times. The boy with the mole, the seductive whispering and ridiculously blue eyes. Her worst nightmare!

Silly and sometimes embarrassing scenes, crazy parties, sex and an innovative topic: being AROMANTIC!

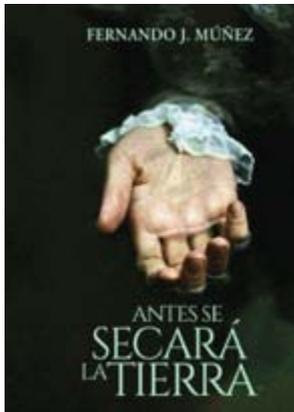

A New Adults by one of the finest new Spanish writers, with a strong erotic element and an irresistible style that makes it a very seductive read. Followed up by a novel within the same genre, to be published in 2023, under the titles "Tres (no) es multitude" (Three is /not/ a Crowd).

Fiction, novel, 217 pp

_ Sold to: Spain (Libros del Lince), World English (Harvill Secker/Vintage), France (Thierry Magnier), Italy (Socrates), Netherlands (De Geus)

“Siete maneras de matar a un gato” is a short novel that tells the story of two poor kids, Gringo and Chueco, who live in the outskirts of Buenos Aires, a place dominated by hunger, boredom and glue. Their friendship is perhaps the only gift life has given them. Surrounded by small-time drug dealers, violence and inhuman ways of living, one day they throw themselves into crime. The theft of a firearm will allow Chueco to climb the ranks in the hell of the garbage dumps. For the Gringo, on the other hand, a chance encounter with love and a manhandled copy of Moby Dick seem to open an alternative path to redemption. But loyalty is everything.

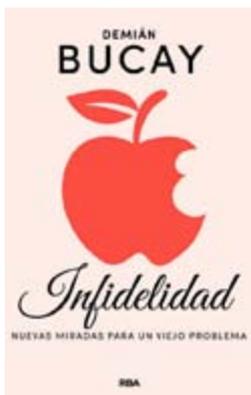

This is a story of initiation and friendship, of loyalty and love, of disappointments and betrayals which Néspolo conceived from the beginning with a film in mind, spurred on by the success of the new Argentine cinema that a decade ago dazzled the world. As Néspolo himself explains, when he was writing the novel he was actually writing a film for Pablo Trapero: “For me it was a story that had gotten out of hand. But I didn’t live it writing as if it were a story itself, but as if it were a film in installments or a serial with which I met again every morning or early morning, in the hours I stole from sleep and work. At the time I was working full time in the editorial office of a newspaper.”

“This is never going to work with me!” More or less everybody has had this idea when he first entered a class of meditation. Which is, actually and as the author impressively argues, the best way to not make it work. In a very funny and authentic first person account, he tells his own story, one of a very normal guy who made his first experiences with meditation in his University years and later developed them further. It is as entertaining as it is well documented and delves deep into the history of Western contact with Eastern philosophy and thinking. Eduardo Jáuregui is the author of the international bestseller “Conversations with my cat”, translated into more than 13 languages.

El efecto Frankenstein (The Frankenstein Effect)

Fiction, novel, Young Adults, 14 +, 331 pp

_ Sold to: Spain (Edebé), Catalan (Edebé), Brazil, Bulgaria
Edebé Award for YA Fiction 2019

Being a woman, a twenty first century medicine student, wearing trousers and having your own criteria, is probably not the best disguise to go unnoticed in Victor Frankenstein's era.

Nora is an emancipated young woman, studying and living on her own, with both her parents abroad. Max is from another, altogether different world where courtly rules apply and science is looking for new ways to understand the phenomenon of life and humanity. Max is from the eighteenth century, Nora is a girl from the twenty-first. They meet when Max visits Nora's world through a time door and have to separate when Max goes back to 1783. But Nora decides to follow him into his universe and their story attracts us into an atmospheric and wonderfully built world where women had few rights and men a lot of obligations.

„El efecto Frankenstein“ is a romantic gothic for a young readership, adding ironical twists to an unconventional lovestory that keeps the reader intrigued to the very last page.

No one knows what's going on inside the high school. Students and teachers run through the building and try to get out at all costs while they hear sounds similar to gunfire... But that's not possible, right? A girl on the street has seen them getting inside and, yes, they were carrying guns. Another student shivers in the library after having witnessed a scene that he will never forget. And John... Where's John? Why, when everyone is trying to run away, is he going down the hall towards the gunshots? Maybe he wants to tell the story himself. Because this is his story. And John's story is the story of Columbine. Or maybe not.

- An emotional story inspired by one of the most heartbreaking high school massacres.
- A thrilling tale filled with social criticism and sensitivity.

David Aguilar / Ferran Aguilar

David Aguilar is a regular 18-year-old from Andorra who is not a LEGO certified professional and more importantly, unlike most people, he was born with just one fully-formed, functional arm. His passion for LEGO drove David to build a prosthetic arm out of LEGO pieces at the age of nine. Fast forward nine years later and many other custom LEGO built and electronic dance music in between, he did it again and this time, his prosthetic arm, the Mk2, is more capable and stronger. Thanks to LEGO Technics elements, With Mk2 David can pick up objects with a pincer-like grip and command it to bend like a regular arm, plus he even has the option to let the motor do the bending or he can choose to do so by his own upper arm's power. David's achievement is nothing short of an inspiration to many.

“Powerful, playful, emotional, and so worth a place on the bookshelf”
Kirkus Starred Review

This book helps addressing memory loss in the elderly in a cheerful and touching way. Little Arthur doesn't take long to put himself in the place of the elephant and offers him comfort and help, as well as company.

Arthur is a very smart boy who is always looking for new adventures where to offer positive things. One day he ran into an elephant who couldn't remember anything.

What will Arthur do to help the elephant? The protagonist of this story is not attracted to new technologies, but her family members love them. Her sister lives on social media, her little brother doesn't know how to play, and her parents are always connected. What can she do?

Pequeños grandes gestos por la ciencia (Small Gestures, Big Effect for Science)

Small Gestures, Big Effect is a beautiful collection of illustrated books for boys and girls, aimed at making them familiar with values and encouraging them, through examples, to become the very main characters of their own stories. Each book pays tribute to a series of courageous personalities from all over the world who, in their own way, helped to make the world a better place. Be it to give a voice to those who have none, to defend the environment, to resist all forms of racism, stand up for more tolerance or to do good, through sports and sciences. Never forget: Big changes often start with a small gesture. Each book is designed by a different illustrator.

We see the series as gift books for children.
